

If You Only Have $20 and 24 Hours.... How to Make Money the Very Same Day!

By Steve Peirce

This report is not to be resold or distributed. Thank you :)

Introduction

This is a report for people that need money now, as in RIGHT NOW, and don't want to or cannot wait for it. This is for the person that has a bill due yesterday, a situation that needs fixing, or (God forbid) needs food to put on the table. This is the report for you. Read this report carefully, I believe these ideas will help you make some money TODAY.

My goal for this report is to empower others with little or no money to spend, to make money the SAME DAY as they put tactics into action. There's nothing wrong with working on long term projects that flesh out large profits in the long term, but this is not a report on that method.

This report is for those that have tried it all. Those that are exhausted with techniques that don't net results. This report isn't glamorous, you won't find a bunch of vanity jobs in here, in fact, and some of these jobs are downright basic. Therefore if you're not looking to sacrifice to get what you want, I can't promise these methods will work.

However, if you have time and you have the will to make money, I promise with this guide you will be presented with both online and offline options to make money. This guide is written from my personal experiences, and I can say that I've done these things below, or at least been a part of the concepts in some way.

If you have around $20 and need more money today, then this guide is for you! Even if you don't have $20, most of these methods will be within your reach. Regardless of the money, really the only important factor to making these ideas work is having a bit of free time to put it into action.

Are you ready to start making some cash? If so, let's get to it!

~ Christine :)

Join IRA If You Can Write

I know the guys that run this site personally, and if you can write and need some cash same day, check it out. They have a simple system where you write a few sentences as a test, and then get approved (typically the same day) to write articles, reports, etc. Once you're approved, you can login to a job board, and check out open projects. Some of the writing gigs listed right now include article sets on mortgages, online degrees, weddings, SEO, etc.

They pay you the same day as you turn in your project. Look for a project that suits you, post on the site that you're taking it, and once you're done, submit it with a Paypal invoice via email and you'll have your cash same day. Now the pay isn't amazing, but it's a legit way to get fast cash in your Paypal account - especially if you aren't crazy about brainstorming ideas and having to sell writing pieces on your own. My PLR Niche Trick for One Day Money

Sticking to the writing theme, you can create and start making money with a niche ebook. The best way to put this concept into action is to have the skill to write a small report on your chosen niche, and build a simple website to post it to. This can seem like a lot of work for just one day, but I feel it can be done, and the outcome is worth it. Since this is going to be done for nothing, we'll rely on a blog instead of a website.

Step one is to craft a niche report. This should be on something you know about, or are at least mildly interested in. What is it that you know about, that you have experience in that you might be able to share with other people? Think about where you work, what you've studied, and what passions/hobbies you have right now. Once you have defined something to write about, draft a 10-15 page report. This should take you no more than two hours or so.

Once the report is done, go to Paypal.com and create a Buy button. Just click on Merchant Services, and create the button. At this point you'll need to select a price. I'd say price it cheap, something like $7 or $9...anything that would allow one to make it an "impulse" purchase.

Once this is done, go to www.blogger.com and sign up for a free blog. Then write a brief sales letter for the blog about your report, just explaining why it's good for any given niche. Make sure to save the sales letter to a word or text file, as we're going to use it later.

Now that you've written your sales letter, it's time to paste in the HTML Buy button into the blog. Simply go to the Blogger HTML editor and paste in the button code below the sales letter text.

Once it's all ready to go, click Publish. You've officially created a niche website with a unique fresh e-book to sell!

But how do you get traffic? Pay Per Click, of course! Now this traffic is going to be extremely niche targeted, so don't worry about the cost. It should be less than $10 for the entire day, or even week!

Free and discounted PPC credits: I've found great discounts on PPC vouchers here: <http://forums.digitalpoint.com/forumdisplay.php?f=89> For example, someone is currently selling a $25 Google Adwords voucher for just $3. I've also discovered free credits by searching Google for them. These specials change almost daily, so here is the direct link to the search:

<http://www.google.com/search?hl=en&q=free+PPC+credits&btnG=Google+Search>

Go to www.adwords.com and setup an account. Use a voucher or free credits if you can. Once you have that, click on new campaign, and write an ad that describes how your niche report is going to help them, and the low price. If you wrote a niche report on how to buy professional quality auto tools for cheap, you'd simply write an ad like;

Professional Auto Tools
Secret One of a Kind Source
Save Thousands for just $7
www.yourblog.blogspot.com

Since you have your blog hosted with Blogger, another Google company, you'll avoid the Google Slap entirely, and get a good bit of traffic to your site for cheap.

But how do you get keywords for your account? Go to <http://freekeywords.wordtracker.com/> and enter in your basic term. For my niche I'd write "tools" in the box. This returns the 100 most popular keyword terms searched. Simply copy that list, and paste it into your AdWords keyword list for your campaign. Make your max bid 15 cents, and set the budget at $10 per day.

You will now start to receive traffic. You've just created an income stream for no cost (or very little if you've bought PPC credits)! But this is just 50% of the method; the other comes under the One Day WSO.

The One Day WSO

I bet you were wondering where you'd spend that $20; well it's going to be spent on a Warrior Special Offer (WSO), located at www.warriorforum.com/forum. This is a powerful online marketplace that almost never leaves a seller in the red.

Your WSO is going to be a PLR or 'private label rights' sale of your niche report that you just posted to Blogger.com. What? Wait, it was just finished and posted my book, won't that affect your sales? No, not one bit.

I guesstimate that 80% of people who purchase PLR items never do a thing with them. The other 20% of PLR buyers typically offer an item to their email list, and then hardly do anything else with it. The chances of someone taking your book, putting it on a blog, and competing with your keywords is absolutely improbable, maybe one in a million if you needed a ratio.

Simply take your blog sales letter, and post it to the WSO, then offer PLR rights, and sell it for, say, $37. If you really need cash, you can of course lower this price to your liking. This should net you some decent money, SAME DAY.

Think about it... before you did any of this you had nothing; you now have two active revenue streams that are making you money. All within the same day, for a combined total of around $30 (or even less if you've found free or discounted PPC credits)!

The One Day Service Offer at Sitepoint.com

Ok, so you can't write, and those first two methods just confirmed you don't want to do that. If that's the case, then this method is for you!

A while back I was going through Sitepoint.com and I noticed a few listings asking for help. Basically to do research for a Webmaster, manage day to day operations, etc. I landed a high-paying job doing some management for a Webmaster. I even got half of the payment up front for the gig. Now that's money the same day!

Go to www.sitepoint.com and look through the entire marketplace. Think about how you can help these people, even those that don't ask for help. When you find a good listing that you could assist them with what they need, send them a private message offering your services. Once they contact you back, give them an instant messenger name that they can contact you at. This should help you start to negotiate terms with them so you get some cash for your services the SAME DAY.

Even More Same Day Online Gigs

An awesome site to look for same day cash is The Admin Zone, located at www.theadminzone.com. Click on the "Community Cooperative" forum and search through dozens of people and companies looking for online help. You are bound to find a few great gigs here.

If you're good at creating content, such as writing blog entries, constructing newsletters, and whipping up articles, check Digital Point <http://forums.digitalpoint.com/forumdisplay.php?f=102> frequently. It's easy to pick up a fast $50 for a couple hours of researching and writing work. This forum also contains many forum posting opportunities, which I'll be addressing shortly.

The One Day eBay Auction That's Destined to Receive Bids

This is a bit out there, but if you like eBay, this might be the method for you. Go to www.ebay.com and pick a category that you have something to offer in. One great category is apparel. Research any items you might have that are receiving high bids, then list your item in a 1 day listing with a Buy It Now for half of what most items are selling for. You should make a sale within a few hours of the listing showing up. Never underestimate how many people on eBay would prefer to Buy It Now if they had the chance.

Another method would be to look at the intangible things that are selling on eBay,. This is often found under the professional services section. Look for what auctions are selling, and see if you could be doing something similar. This might sound far fetched, but it's often the case that what someone else is doing for money, can be done by you for money. And if there's a market price for it, that might just be some same day cash waiting to happen. Once you find a listing that you like, copy the main points, change the verbiage, and do a one day listing, bidstyle to allow people to bid up the price.

Become a Forum Poster

If you need cash and have some spare time online, getting paid to post on forums may be a good method for you. As a general rule, you'll need to have decent grammar skills and be fluent in the English language.

Most companies hiring forum posters pay anywhere between .10 to .35 or higher per post. If you're a fast typer, you might be able to squeeze in 30-50 posts per hour. You might be able to earn anywhere between $40-$70 for the day for posting. This method won't make you rich (obviously), but if you need money fast, it's not a bad idea – especially if you have no choice but to find something online to earn money. Most companies that I've come across pay out the same day via Paypal. Look into <http://www.forumwizards.com> when starting – they pay you via Paypal within 12 hours.

Some forums may even allow you to use your own signature file, which is a great way of making extra cash. Simply choose a complimentary affiliate program that's relevant to the forum you're posting at, and use it each time you post. (Be sure to check and make sure it's within the guidelines of each forum you're posting at before doing this.)

While Clickbank.com might seem like the ideal affiliate directory to start searching, I'd recommend using www.PayDotCom.com to choose an affiliate program. The PDC site uses Paypal to process payments, and you're more likely receive your affiliate commissions sooner.

The One Day Tax Season Promotion

For those of you that prefer to make your quick money offline, this is for you! In honor of tax season, I figured I'd give you a tip on how to make quick cash with tax services. If you live in a major city, or even smaller city, you've probably seen those Liberty Tax people dressed up in the silly outfits holding up signs. Did you know those people are most likely independent contractors who are paid by the day? While I can't wholeheartedly confirm this is true because I don't work for Liberty tax services, it does seem to be the case. So if you're ready to dance, go down there and ask if you could spend a day holding the sign for money,

I'm sure they'd pay you a decent bit of cash to do it, and of course, it'd be on the same day!

Another option is to call local tax companies and ask if they have anything you could do for money, like hand out fliers at the mall, etc. Tell them your rates are cheap, $40 for the day, and you'll go to the busiest mall, Wal-Mart parking lot, or major shopping center to hand out flyers for their tax service. This is the time of year when these companies have cash to burn!

The One Day Plasma Donation

This isn't for the squeamish, but if you've got to have money today, consider donating plasma. This is a quick way to make $35, and it takes about 2 hours of your time. It's very similar to giving blood. As long as you're healthy enough, you'll get approved and paid the same day. Just search for local plasma donation companies, or look in the phone book. They typically have a check cashing service on site, so they'll cash the check on site and give you real money before you even leave the place. I think you can do this up to 3 times per week, however you'll have to check with them.

Another perk of giving plasma is that they give you a pretty decent physical, which is 100% free. A registered nurse, or sometimes even a doctor, will check you for all types of diseases before you give plasma, so you in essence get $35 per donation plus a one time physical for free.

The One Day Domain Flip

A quick way to make money if you are creative is to flip a domain. This will cost $9 with GoDaddy.com and take about 20 minutes of your time. You should think very hard about what domain would be relevant now, and worth a lot of money. Go with something that has value to a certain niche. Think what people that publish websites would find valuable. Be careful about registering domains with trademarks in them, though, such as “Myspace”, “Ebay”, etc. If you need some domain ideas, I find it great to brainstorm at online domain hangouts to see what’s hot at the moment.

Once you’ve registered your domain, go to your chosen forum to sell it. I’d go with marketing it on the most popular Webmaster forums, as well as eBay. List it as a first come first serve style auction, with a Buy It Now of, say, $65. This is cheap enough, that it should attract some eyeballs as long as the domain is good. Once they buy, it’s super easy to transfer the domain from GoDaddy.com to the new buyer. Simply login to your GoDaddy.com account, go to the My Domains tab, and you should be able to follow instructions from there.

I’ve used this method for years and find that sometimes I made a great deal more just listing a plain one-day auction, opposed to using the Buy It Now feature. This is due to last minute bidders having a bidding war during the very last moments of an auction, which is in your favor! I remember I started a very generic domain name auction at $9 and having it barely reach $30 an hour before the end of the auction. The next morning, I woke up to find that, due to two women having a “bidding war”, the ending price was $160! Not bad for a $9 investment!

How you decide to list the auction really all depends on how quickly you need the cash – if it’s urgent, skip the wait and put a reasonably low Buy It Now price tag on the domain. If it’s a decent domain, you’ll see activity whether it be someone ending the auction by paying, or possibly a few people looking to haggle on the price using Ebay’s “Ask Seller A Question” feature.

Funds Using Freecycle

Freecycle is a great organization that freely gives away items that are no longer needed by people in your community. There is most likely a Freecycle group for your town or county. (Check here to read more about Freecycle and to see your local groups: www.freecycle.org)

Hundreds of items are given away each day within my local group. Many people will argue that items Freecycled should not be sold under any circumstance, but I find that many people looking to get rid of their stuff honestly don’t care what happens to it. These people just want it gone!

That said, I don't think this method could or should be used for long-term income generating... but if you're in a desperate money crunch and see an opportunity here, it's worth a one-time shot.

Join your local group or groups, and spend a while viewing what's being given away. Smaller items such as books are a great item to resell. Sometimes people give away several boxes of books at a time. If you find just ten books that fetch $10 each, that's $100 profit! You can sell them for free locally on Craigslist.org or of course on eBay. Offer at a great low price and you could see cash today!

The One Day Business Window Wash

When my aunt owned a retail store, there was an old man that would come by and wash her windows for $18. He was very talented; he washed the windows of most stores on the block. You never think about it, but there are a lot of small businesses out there that need their windows washed. The cost of supplies is very small, and some already have them at home ready to go. Typically this can be done on the same day, and business owners will have a hard time saying no.

Target small businesses that rely on their window as a showcase. The retail store my aunt had was a clothing related business, and thus her windows were very important in attracting business. When the window washer came in, and asked if my aunt wanted her windows washed, it was a no-brainer. Literally fifteen minutes later, my aunt was taking $20 out of the cash register for him. With a little effort, you could make a nice chunk of change the SAME DAY with this method.

Craigslist Cash

Go to the Gigs (not Jobs) section on your local Craigslist (<http://www.craigslist.org>) and you'll probably see dozens of same-day jobs that could land you fast cash. Most are handyman-type gigs (washing windows, yard work, fix sinks, help moving furniture, etc.), but there are others as well. Babysitters, amateur photographers, movie extras, and more. Most don't require long-term availability, so it's a quick way to earn money.

Here's another idea using Craigslist. Recently I came across someone looking to pay quick bucks for a speedy resume written up for them. There are a bunch of free resume resources online that can help build a resume for free – take advantage of this, since obviously there is a market for it!

Find a free online resume generator of your choice (www.10minuteresume.com is a good place to begin), practice using it a bit, even build a few sample resumes and post a miniportfolio in a matter of minutes (use Geocities or a free blog so there's no expense on your part).

Then use Craigslist's "Services" category and post your new resume service in a few of the top cities. I bet you'll see a steady stream of interest in a short amount of time.

...Even More Same Day Tactics!

Sell A Source List – i.e. Your Own Resource Collection

People are always crunched for time. Providing them with a handy "cheat sheet" of resources saves time and energy.

Create a Source List and sell it on a blog. This would work best for those that are working in Internet Marketing, Ebay, etc. but I could absolutely see this working in other non-IM niches, such as cloth diaper fabric and notion suppliers, etc. (I guess it's no surprise what source list I may be working on!)

Creating a source list is not hard to do. It just involves writing a short list of the "go to" people in your group – i.e. Graphic designers, printers, etc. Next you would sell it for a decent price, say $10 (more or less, depending on the complexity of the list and the group you're targeting).

Put the blog URL in your signature and make a few dozen helpful, relevant posts in an active forum. For example, if your source list was targeted at webmasters, you could drop by sitepoint.com or digitalpoint.com. Typically, busy forums may net anywhere from 30-50 unique hits per post, which would probably net a sale or two.

To take it one step further, you could always offer resale or private label rights to your source list and bump up the price even more! Offer it as a WSO and I'm sure you'll see good results!

Help Local Businesses Sell Goods On Ebay

Pick an industry locally (i.e. clothing, shoes, sporting goods, etc) and get out the phone book for this method. Select ten of the top stores, and call each one. Ask for the manager, and ask if they'd like you to sell their goods on Ebay for a small fee. Tell them you have time today, and are willing to come to them to inventory their goods.

Typically small businesses are too busy trying to sell their goods in the physical world that they ignore the Internet altogether. A door to door service by you is something that would probably work, and could help you profit long term.

Local Community Blog

Another local concept is to set up a blog which lists activities going on in the community.

Call around to local businesses, get their events for free, and at the end of the call as if they'd like to donate $5 as a sponsor of the blog, which would get a live link to the store's site, or other feature.

The blog itself only takes 2 minutes to set up and is an easy way for you to add in all your community events on there. Think store sales, charity auctions, school events, etc. You can promote it by promising to deliver a stack of flyers to the school, city hall, and other local hangouts.

Churn Out Affordable Sales Letters

If you can write, offer affordable sales letters for website owners. Sales copy costs anywhere from $500 to $5,000 a page, and thus Webmasters are crunched for the good stuff.

If you can sell this service for say, $75 a page, and have decent skills, this would catch people's attention and can land you some fast work. The best method to get your service out would be forum marketing.

Sell a VOIP Offer

Vonage and other VOIP companies offer around $100 commission per sale of their service. Many people are interested in VOIP but need someone to explain how it works. This is your chance to sell VOIP!

Go to any of the CPA sites such as CJ.com, Azoogle.com, CPAempire.com, etc. and sign up for the Vonage/VOIP offer. You'll get a link with your affiliate ID in there. Next contact anyone you know that might be interested in VOIP by phone or email (or even in the Services section of Craigslist). Once you've got them ready to take action, send them your link and make sure they know they need to sign up via your link for commission.

Again, this is one for the talkers/communicators out there, but surprisingly not a lot of people do it. VOIP is great, easy to use, and doesn't cost too much up front, but pays a large commission.

The No-Product Ebay Method

Try doing a one day sale on eBay of a big ticket affiliate product (think Day Job Killer or Butterfly Marketing) with the Buy It Now slightly below your affiliate commission.

For example, say you wish to promote an affiliate product that retails for $100 and has a 50% commission payout. That means you receive $50 on each sale (for the sake of simplicity, I'm not going to factor in transaction fees for this example, but of course you'll need to figure any out before selling). You could offer the product for, say, $75. That lowers your commission by $25, BUT it creates tons of interest because it's at a discounted rate for the purchaser!

Use Ebay's feature of only allowing instant Paypal payments, so you can be paid immediately. Once you receive payment, you will need to order the item yourself and then send it to your customer.

Conclusion

I've taken you on a crash course of making money the same day, and left a lot of assuming up to you. This report is deliberately short and to the point, because it really is all about taking action. If you spent all day reading, it wouldn't allow you to take action. Putting these methods to work will net you some serious results. If one doesn't work for you, I'm sure another will. The key is... how motivated are you to make money, the SAME DAY?

If you're motivated, then this is your toolbox, your brainstorming session, your 'take it to the streets' guide. All you need to do is pick a single method to start, and go for it. I promise you'll be surprised by the results!
